The partnership of Breazeale, Sachse & Wilson, LLP has named Scott N. Hensgens Managing Partner of the firm.

He must strategically lead the firm in the direction that ensures another 80 years of success on behalf the partners, and more importantly, the clients. He will also continue his practice of law. "Hensgens' selection as Managing Partner puts him in a position to be a great new leader for the region, and it's all the more impressive because he has been selected for this management role so early in his career," said Adam Knapp, President and CEO of the Baton Rouge Area Chamber. "BRAC congratulates Scott and Breazeale Sachse on their announcement."

Hensgens practices in the Baton Rouge office of Breazeale, Sachse & Wilson, LLP. His principal areas of practice include business and commercial litigation, contract litigation, consumer credit litigation, trademark and copyright registration and litigation and insurance coverage litigation. His experience includes representing individuals, small and large businesses, insurance companies, corporate shareholders, automobile dealerships, and credit reporting agencies.

Hensgens was admitted to practice: 1997, Louisiana State Courts, Eastern, Middle & Western Districts of Louisiana, Fifth and Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals. He received his J.D. from Tulane Law School in 1997, as magna cum laude and Order of the Coif. He received his B.A. degree from Louisiana State University in 1993, again, magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa.

"I firmly believe that if we continue to put our clients' needs first and maintain our commitment to offering great legal work product and excellent client service, we will continue to grow and protect our clients' businesses and our own. We must never forget that meeting the client's need is at the core of our every move," said Hensgens.
